 A wide-angle photograph of a living room in its original state. The room features light-colored walls, a wooden floor with some debris, and a large window with a view of trees. The ceiling has a single light fixture.	 A wide-angle photograph of the same living room after renovation. The room is now furnished with a grey sectional sofa, a round coffee table, and a white console table. The walls are painted a neutral color, and the floor is finished with dark wood-look planks. The lighting is more modern with recessed ceiling lights.	 A close-up photograph of a wall corner showing significant damage. The paint is peeling and chipped away, revealing the underlying drywall and some insulation. The floor is dark wood.	 A close-up photograph of the same wall corner after repair. The wall is now smooth and painted a clean, light color. The floor is dark wood, and the baseboard is white.
